ONLINE POSTGRADUATE DIPLOMA IN TB/HIV MANAGEMENT

An exciting and pioneering programme for training doctors and nurses in the complicated management of HIV and TB infected patients.

BACKGROUND

In underserved areas where HIV and TB are rife, primary care clinicians increasingly require in-depth knowledge to safely deal with the complex HIV/TB scenarios they encounter on a daily basis. However, high patient loads, limited time and geographical distance, mean that healthcare workers are unable to access traditional educational methods. The fully accredited Postgraduate Diploma in TB/HIV Management from the University of Cape Town is a sophisticated training programme that is completely online and can be accessed via your laptop, tablet or mobile phone.

COURSES

Year 1
- Clinical Management of HIV
- Clinical management of TB

Year 2
- TB/HIV Co-infection & Infection Prevention and Control
- Operational Research
- Introduction to Biostatistics

“I am now more confident in managing my patients. I have stopped doubting myself. I now refer less to specialists and the hospital. I manage a large percentage of my patients well with excellent results. I will forever be appreciative of the opportunity to do this course.”

DEVELOPED BY A TEAM OF EXPERTS

More than just a series of lecture notes, our 2-year programme includes comprehensive and practical content, developed by a team of leading global infectious disease experts. Our courses are rich with interactive audio-visual modules and adopt an active learning approach. They contain built-in activities (peer- and self-assessments) which allow students to constantly apply and self-evaluate their knowledge and skills.

APPLICATION OF KNOWLEDGE

By providing an easily accessible training tool, this online course allows any clinician, regardless of location, to effectively and confidently treat patients suffering from TB and HIV.

SUPPORTIVE LEARNING ENVIRONMENT

Dedicated course coaches and lecturers provide ongoing student support and motivation. Student community networks are fostered through social chat groups, sync sessions, and forums where students share their experiences from the field.

ONLINE LEARNING ON YOUR TERMS

Gain a postgraduate qualification from a leading African University, without interruptions to your work schedule, or having to travel far for lectures. The lecture hall is replaced by the comfort of your own home.
